Bruce Barker specializes in investment sales. He has had 25 years of success in multiple industries and has proven to be a dedicated servant and high achiever.

Bruce is mission-oriented and dedicated to helping clients achieve their goals. He cares that each investment opportunity greatly benefits his clients, their families, and future generations. As a member of a highly experienced investment team at Kidder Mathews, Bruce has unlimited access to resources to meet his clients' needs.

Bruce is a former Army Special Forces (Green Beret), having proudly served his country for 22 years with nine extended international deployments and experience in over 30 countries. In that role, he gained valuable experience in international negotiations, foreign business operations, and national-level strategy. Bruce is an experienced "Special Operator" and Bronze Star recipient; he understands loyalty and commitment. Bruce has combined his military service with an equally strong finance, accounting, private equity, and business administration background. His extensive military discipline and investment experience give him a unique focus and ability to assist clients with their investments.

In addition to his military accomplishments, Bruce has founded multiple successful businesses, served on local advisor boards and boards of directors, and has participated in and led national-level socioeconomic development projects abroad.
