Jordan specializes in the sale and acquisition of multifamily and investment properties in the Portland metropolitan area and along the I-5 corridor.

Jordan Carter is an executive vice president and shareholder in the Portland office of Kidder Mathews. Since joining Kidder Mathews in 2006, Jordan has been one of the most active multifamily brokers across the Pacific Northwest, having closed over 200 transactions for over $1 billion in value.

Jordan's experience includes representing buyers and sellers of traditional seasoned apartment buildings, new construction and mixed-use buildings, and multifamily development land. He has been a featured speaker at several industry wide events for groups such as Multifamily NW, IREM, and the Commercial Association of Brokers.

As a licensed attorney in Oregon for over 19 years, prior to entering the commercial real estate profession, Jordan practiced law in Portland and assisted in his family's construction business. Jordan's legal background and knowledge of the construction industry benefit his clients by bringing a unique perspective to help evaluate and facilitate multifamily transactions.

Jordan's free time is spent working around the house, trying to get better at golf (without much success), and hanging out with his wife and three amazing children.
