Al Choi is a life-long resident of Los Angeles with an undergraduate economics degree from UCLA. He is an associate vice president with Kidder Mathews specializing in commercial retail for Glendale and the surrounding areas.

Al first went into financial services as a series-7, licensed stockbroker focusing on 403-B, tax-deferred retirement annuities for state employees. He began brokering commercial real-estate in the Mid-Wilshire district, closing several significant multi-family residential transactions and brokering retail property which he has also been tasked with managing for decades.
