Christopher Giordano is a senior vice president and shareholder with Kidder Mathews in Los Angeles.

Christopher's specialty within commercial real estate is a focus on properties within Greater Los Angeles and the surrounding submarkets. With over 11 years of experience in the sale and leasing of properties within those markets, he has distinguished himself as an industry leader in the marketplace. As a native Angeleno, he is familiar with the economic and political drivers of growth in the city, and is dedicated to staying ahead of market research, trends, and strategic forecasting. He understands his clients' needs on a personal level, thanks to his family experience in commercial real estate investments, and is backed by a best-in-class network of industry professionals while he provides unmatched, personalized service.
