Grant Guernsey focuses on the leasing and sales of downtown, close-in eastside and suburban office/flex properties in the Portland metro area.

His unique high touch, high quality service style provides his clients with a hands-on experience that adds value at every point in the process. Additionally, Grant looks to be a multiplier to his client's growing businesses by offering connections within his personal and professional network.

Before Kidder Mathews, Grant started his brokerage career at Cushman & Wakefield where he gained experience consulting with local, regional and global companies. Prior to that, Grant was a commercial lender spotlighting middle market financial consulting and commercial real estate acquisitions. To partner with his background in banking and commercial real estate, Grant also has a tenured history in marketing and technology which broadens his expertise to benefit his clients in multiple facets. Grant's goal is to be more than just a broker for his clients, but a strategist that understands each company at a deeper level and guides them to success tailored to their needs.
