Sean specializes in leasing and private capital investment services in the Portland Metro area.

With a focus on agency representation, Sean employs a holistic approach to guide clients through intricate opportunities, offering innovative solutions and actionable plans for sustained success. Drawing from two decades of experience, he brings seasoned insight, fostering collaboration and leveraging a vast network of industry relationships to drive successful transactions and deliver investment returns for regional, national, and international clients.

BACKGROUND

As a seasoned CRE executive, Sean's journey spans tenure at a top global commercial real estate services firm to owning and managing a thriving boutique firm in Portland. His transition to the Kidder Mathews platform embodies his commitment to sharing his wealth of experience, knowledge, and collaborative ethos.

Sean's expertise extends across various sectors, from warehouse and distribution buildings to industrial parks, retail spaces, flex properties, and core office assets. His unique perspective emphasizes the interplay between creativity, strategic planning, meticulous project execution, and cultivating enduring client relationships.

Outside of the boardroom, Sean finds solace in nature, seeking refuge amidst trees, mountains, or bodies of water. His passion for cultural immersion and adventure takes him to foreign lands, where he enjoys rafting, skiing, surfing, or engaging in youth outreach initiatives. And when the travel bug isn't biting, playing soccer, and cheering for the Timbers serves as a fitting pastime.
